

We need more choice in health care.

A click of the mouse allows every consumer to purchase an endless list of products - except health insurance - from all 50 states.

Because CED's plan would allow the sale of insurance nationwide, more providers would compete for your dollar. You'd be able to choose from a larger array of plans - and with more value, at a better price.

ACA doesn't allow insurance companies to sell the same plans across state lines.

Allowing insurance companies to sell their plans nationwide will lower costs and increase options for companies and individuals.

See other CED recommendations at ced.org/healthcare