The Committee for Economic Development (CED) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, business-led public policy organization that delivers well-researched analysis and reasoned solutions to our nation’s most critical issues.

Since its inception in 1942, CED has addressed national priorities that promote sustained economic growth for the benefit of all Americans. CED’s work has helped shape economic policies and initiatives that include the Marshall Plan and the Bretton Woods Agreement; campaign finance and education reform; and short- and long-term challenges to our nation’s fiscal health and free enterprise system. CED’s research findings are linked with programs throughout the country, achieving tangible impact at the local, state, and national levels.

Our nation requires inspired business leadership to reach the goals that we all share, including increased economic growth and educational opportunities. We need reasoned dialogue to address these civic challenges, and strong business leaders to support, influence, and advance the discussions.

The Distinguished Performance Awards Dinner honors business leaders who have answered CED’s call for leadership. We are proud to highlight our history of engaging business leaders in public policy and look forward to recognizing the many companies and individuals who continue that legacy.

TERESA CARLSON
Vice President, Worldwide Public Sector
Amazon Web Services

Teresa Carlson is the founder and leader of Amazon Web Services (AWS) Worldwide Public Sector, and one of the most accomplished and forward-thinking technology leaders in the world today. Through her charismatic leadership, Carlson has helped change mindsets of both individuals and organizations around the world, modernize policies at all levels of government, and cultivate a 21st century global workforce equipped with the skillset necessary to leverage the full potential of cloud to drive innovation.

Carlson founded the Worldwide Public Sector in 2010, and since then has driven the business’s growth. Today, more than 4,000 government agencies, more than 9,000 education institutions, and more than 24,000 nonprofit organizations around the world use AWS. Additionally, Carlson advises Amazon Public Policy on global policy issues.

Carlson has also been a strong advocate for empowering women in the technology field. That passion led to the creation of “We Power Tech,” AWS’s diversity and inclusion initiative, which aims to ensure underrepresented groups — including women — are reflected throughout all AWS outreach efforts. Less than two years after launching the program, We Power Tech has engaged more than 1,000 individuals across eight countries worldwide.

Carlson has over 20 years of executive experience and has earned industry recognition for her leadership. In 2019, she was inducted into the Wash100, a premier group of public and private sector leaders with expertise in the government space.

CRAIG JELINEK
President & CEO
Costco Wholesale Corporation

Craig Jelinek hails from the high desert town of Lancaster, California, 60 miles north of Los Angeles. It was here that he grew up and attended high school and junior college, and it was here that he got his first job as a part-time food stocker with Fed-Mart’s Lancaster franchise. He worked for Fed-Mart through college and graduated with an associate degree in business administration in 1975. Jelinek held various management positions with Fed-Mart, eventually becoming operations manager for its Los Angeles division until its closure in 1982. He spent the next two years with a department store chain called Gemco. In 1984 he joined Costco, opening the company’s sixth location in Tukwila, Washington. He played a key role in Costco’s expansion into Nevada and California. As assistant vice president, regional manager of what was then called the Southwest Region.

Jelinek returned to the Puget Sound region in 1992, assuming the title of senior vice president, operations, for the West Coast. The Price Club merger in October 1993 brought new changes, and he took over the Northwest Region. In 2004 Jelinek was promoted to executive vice president and COO of merchandising overseeing e-commerce, fresh foods, meat, bakery, deli, produce, foods, non-foods, pharmacy, home/business centers and purchasing. In 2010, Jelinek was named president and COO, and he joined Costco’s Board of Directors. In January 2012, Jim Sinegal retired, and Jelinek took over as CEO.
The Leadership in Diversity Award was established by CED to honor exceptional companies and individuals who are leading programs that foster diversity in the workplace and champion underrepresented groups.
